The online resources provided by the teacher.

Paraphrasing, Reporting and Referencing

The feedback that the teacher gives the students about their own papers and articles.

Writing weekly homework

Completing the writing tasks and check the revised version.

All topics covered are relevant for PhD career

7. Areas for improvement: please tell us what you think is missing.

There is little to improve. The amount of work is balanced with the goals of the course. And the commitment of the teacher is noticeable. He loves what he does.

I would like to suggest to have more workload by with more time between due dates to let students have the teacher's feedback during the module duration.

I think that the course is very complete.

Nothing

This course is well-organized.

Probably dedicating more time for correcting PhD students' academic writing examples
